The Daily Press.

HONGKONG, MARCH 9, 1867.

WE are happy to be informed that arrangements are in active progress at Macao to resuscitate the charitable institutions which at present stand in need of pecuniary aid. It is satisfactory to find that our Sister Colony is alive to the importance of maintaining these Christian Institutions, and that even although their exchequer may be low, means can be devised to prevent so sad a termination to the charitable endeavours of previous generations.

WE wonder if the City Hall will ever be finished and put into commission for the purpose to which it is intended, we sincerely hope so, but confess to having serious misgivings on the point. We fear the application of those magnificent ideas which are so beautiful to public spirit here. The building alone will cost, say $100,000, half of which was advanced through the munificence of Mr. ROBERT JARDINE. If the cost of the building ended the outlay, hopes of its ultimate success might be reasonably entertained, but even so, we do not see from what source Mr. JARDINE is to receive the interest of his loan. It can hardly be expected that the hire of the theatre and the assembly room, with the rent of the rooms to be occupied by the Chamber of Commerce, will do more than, if so much as, keep so vast a building in proper order; this, however, is not the consideration which weighs upon our judgment. The difficulty which presents itself to our mind lies in furnishing and fitting up. The Club Lusitano, for instance, cost in building about $27,000, with the furnishing and fitting up this sum was more than doubled, magnificent ideas were totally eschewed, and the strictest economy practised. If the City Hall should be fitted and furnished for say $30,000, which is a very low estimate, where, we ask, is the money to come from—there is but one Mr. ROBERT JARDINE, and even if there were two it would be rather too much to expect the present one to allow a preferential claim to supercede his munificent loan.

The fact is the whole affair is one magnificent idea, and forms a further illustration, if such were needed, of the fact that the community of Hongkong will not cut their coat according to the quantity of cloth at their disposal. A building such as the Club Lusitano would be fully ample to all the requirements of a City Hall in so small a colony as this, especially in the absence of all public spirit, and in view of the great difficulty of coaxing people out of their roosts at night, but here a conception is carried out in apparent rivalry of a large provincial town in England, and we sadly fear it will end in grief.

In further confirmation of what we stated in relation to the Military Contribution and the Stamp Act, we are enabled to add that the former impost actually stands suspended. Now as the colony does not require the suspension of the Military Contribution and the exaction of the Stamp Act also it certainly follows that the suspension of the one implies the waiving of the other, and therefore there can be no doubt of our report relative to the Stamp Act being correct.

It may be taken as an axiom that they who would suppress a despatch which should be made public would hesitate little to misrepresent the tenor of such despatch. What possible object can Sir RICHARD MACDONNELL have in keeping private the despatches from the Colonial Office on the Stamp Act except by an unfair advantage to prosecute his own hobby.

THERE are some good stories going the rounds on the subject of the jokes which have been played upon the 73rd in relation to the insalubrity of this colony. The best story refers to the visit of some men of the 20th to the Golden Fleece ere the 73rd had debarked. The new comers made anxious inquiries from their visitors as to the healthiness of the place, and received tolerably satisfactory information, except on the subject of "morning duty," on being asked for the particulars of this disagreeable duty a wag in the 20th said it was "recognising the corpses that had died overnight, and reporting them to the COLONEL."

It seems such were the exaggerated rumours in England regarding the insalubrity of Hongkong, that there was some consternation in the 73rd on their being ordered here, and that a number of officers either sold out or obtained exchanges.

Whilst on this topic we may be excused for expressing a hope that the COLONEL of the 73rd will follow the wise example of COLONEL BROWNE, of the 20th, and will prohibit the men from going to the West end of the town at all! If a good liberal Canteen be kept at the Barracks, the men can have no business to the Westward—the Eastward being far better adapted to their comfort and recreation. We are sure the Race Committee will be too happy to place the stands at the disposal of the Garrison.

It is really rather ludicrous to witness the jealousy of each succeeding Governor of Hongkong to his predecessor. The system is more to blame than the men, it reduces them to petty despots, and when a review is taken of their combined careers, they certainly do cut a most ridiculous figure. Sir JOHN DAVIES, the first bonâ fide Governor, had a deep thirst for diplomacy. He made a raid on Canton with the garrison to teach the Imperial Commissioner civility, and he suspended the Chief Justice because the law stood slightly in his way. He was recalled for his caprices ere he obtained a footing on terra firma, to squander the resources of the colony, and thus we escaped his frivolities. He stuck his coat of arms over the Cathedral door, but we do not think he perpetuated his disgraceful career by calling any public work, street, or alley after his potent self. Then came Sir GEORGE BONHAM, a pigeon-hole hack who could only be likened to the man in the parable, who buried his talent lest he should lose it. There were no non-official members in the Council in his days, and he had comical ideas on the subject of representative institutions. Some complaints were made of the arbitrary nature of his Government, at the same time some little difficulty was experienced in obtaining men for the police force. Sir GEORGE thought he had hit upon a happy expedient whereby to solve this difficult problem, and he actually offered to the community the privilege of appointing the police constables subject to his approval. He had some ambition to perpetuate his name in the colony, and a good opportunity was afforded him of doing so, the water off the Western Bazaar shoaled so rapidly that he made a sort of a bridle-path in the front of it, and called it Bonham Strand, which remains even to this day. Then came the Bolton Brawler, the far-famed Benthamite, the tergiversating philanthropist, Dr. BOWRING. He, like Sir JOHN DAVIES had diplomacy on the brain, and local affairs were beneath his notice, until being kicked out of the ranks of diplomacy he sought to make himself conspicuous in any way his extreme vanity prompted. In his days it was that the colony waxed great, by reason of the decadence of Canton, and he had no difficulty in filling his Treasury from the proceeds of the sale of Crown Lands. He hoarded every dollar he could grasp to build a vast Praya in the front of the town, violating the rights of public property, suspending public works, and even refusing a water supply. This Praya was to be called the Bowring Praya, and was to "perpetuate" his name in stone for ages in China, but although he proceeded so far as to render the construction of the Praya inevitable, the special ordinance which he devised for attaching his name to it was lost, and we were spared the disgrace of his name being attached to the undertaking. He succeeded, however, in completely snuffing out Bonham Strand as completely as it will be seen directly his successor snuffed out him. Then came Sir HERCULES ROBINSON, who found himself with a full Treasury and a great paucity of public works. Not content with trebling the gaol accommodation on this side the harbour, he multiplied it on the other side; and not satisfied with the drain which the Military Contribution inflicted on the colony he established the Mint, appropriating the money requisite for its construction and equipment in an unauthorized and in as totally an illegal manner as if he had embezzled it. But he played his predecessor Dr. B. a precious trick. The Rarical had promoted a filling-in project at Wanchi, which he thought would eventuate in the erection of the most respectable native district of the town. He called it Bowrington, and it was somehow or another so managed by Sir HERCULES ROBINSON that it contains nothing but miserable shanties. Our readers cannot have failed to have noticed in their drives from the Race Course the miserable appearance of the back slums of Bowrington. A sad falling off to the imaginary glory of the vain originator.

Then came Sir RICHARD MACDONNELL, profound in the administration of Australia and Nova Scotia, the only man in Hongkong who understood aught of the resources or requirements of this colony. His weakness seems to be a morbid anxiety to undo all that his predecessor effected. Regarding the Mint, the Stone-Cutter's Island Gaol, and the Clock Tower, everybody in the colony objected to the projects ere a dollar was spent upon them. But as they are now finished and paid for it is but prudent that the best should be made of them without regard to the Responsibility of Sir HERCULES ROBINSON. Sir RICHARD is so determined on closing the Mint that he will not give it a fair trial. He should be satisfied with improving the administration of justice and the efficiency of the police, without refusing a fair rental for the Stone-Cutter's Island Gaol, and we think he should point out some better place for the public clock than the site of the present tower ere he talks of pulling down that objectionable construction.

Thus is the unfortunate colony ridden rough-shod over by Sir JOHNS and Sir GEORGES, and Sir HERCULES, and Sir RICHARDS, Sir TOM and Sir HARRY have still to follow.

The Collision between the "Agamemnon" and the "Mona."

The British steamer Mona, Captain Haffenden, from Labuan with dates to the 24th instant, anchored in the harbour last night and proceeded to Tanjong Pagar this morning. When within 12 miles of this port at a little after 8 o'clock last night, she met the steamer Agamemnon which left this last evening for Hongkong, and the two vessels came into collision. The latter struck the former on the starboard quarter just abaft the break of the poop, leaving a portion of her outwater there and cutting the Mona down to within one foot of the water line. The Agamemnon will proceed to the Patent Slip and Dock Co's Wharf to-day, to undergo necessary repairs. It is impossible to form any estimate of the damages sustained by either vessel through the collision. The Lenton Troupe were all on board the Mona, at the time of the collision with the Agamemnon, and our old acquaintance, the boneless boy, got his leg fractured; the two children of Mr. Smith were saved miraculously, they being at the time asleep in the cabin into which the Agamemnon's stem penetrated.—Straits Times, Feb. 28th.

We have since heard from Captain Brown of the steamer John Bright, that the survey on the Agamemnon was not completed when the former vessel left Singapore, but as far as could be ascertained it was hoped that the Agamemnon could be fitted with a temporary wooden stem and would be able to proceed in about eight or ten days.

A BRIEF CAREER.—We read in the Boston Advertiser: "When the first oil fever broke out in Pennsylvania in 1863, one of the earliest and best oil-producing farms was that of the Widow M'Clintock, in Venango county. Several wells with products ranging from 2,500 to 200 barrels a day were struck at intervals during 1863 and 1864, and the income in money from the territory was almost fabulous in amount. The old lady owning the property did not live long to enjoy her good fortune, but died in 1864, and left her all without reservation to her adopted son. This youth, like the hero of Miss Edward's pleasant novel, "Half a Million of Money," who came suddenly into possession of a like amount—had not been taught to understand the value of dollars and cents; and, unlike that character, he had no refined tastes, and threw his wealth away with the most lavish folly. Of course he rushed to New York; and there in a year and a half he squandered two million of dollars. Of course the most ingenious extravagance was necessary to spend this enormous amount. He not only entered into every species of debauchery, not only lost a hundred thousand dollars in two nights at faro with Hon. John Morrissey, but, but bought superb teams and gave them away after an hour's ownership, supported a swarm of human leeches of both sexes, and even equipped a negro-minstrel troupe, presenting each member with a costly diamond ring and pin. His brilliant career is now over, and oddly enough, he fills the position of doorkeeper to the travelling minstrel company which his own munificence organized, and his farm on Oil Creek has been disposed of at public sale for arrears of Government tax."

Supreme Court.

BEFORE CHIEF JUSTICE SMALE.

His Lordship delivered this morning the following decision in regard to the preliminary objections taken by Mr. Pollard to the writ of capias issued in the case of Schenk v Armero. It appears that on the 22nd of February last, the plaintiff issued the writ of summons usual in all actions against the defendant. The form of this writ is according to the provisions of the Common Law Procedure Act of 1852 as embodied in and made the Law of this Colony by the Ordinance No. 6 of 1856, and schedule A thereto. This writ of summons was served on the defendant on the same day on which it was issued. On the same day and prior to the service of this writ on the defendant, the plaintiff made the usual affidavit of the defendant's indebtedness to the plaintiff and of the defendant being able to quit the Colony and go to Macao. On this application a writ in the nature of Capias ad respondendum issued out of the Supreme Court. It was the duty to this Court to issue that writ on such an affidavit by the plaintiff. The writ of summons was served on the defendant on the 22nd February, the day of its issue. At the same time the Sheriff to whom the capias ad respondendum was as of course directed arrested the defendant. The defendant thereupon and solely to avoid his being carried to prison, paid the amount for which the writ was issued to the Sheriff, and thereupon the Sheriff permitted the defendant to go at large and free of the said arrest as to this action, and the action proceeded on the writ of summons: the plaintiff thus having obtained as a collateral matter, security that he should in due course obtain the fruit of his succeeding in the action. On the 27th of February a summons was obtained out of this Court by the defendant, calling on the plaintiff to shew cause before me at Chambers on the 1st instant—1st, Why the writ of summons herein 2nd, Why the judge's order to hold to bail; 3rd, Why the writ of capias ad respondendum and other subsequent proceedings should not be set aside; and 4th, Why the money deposited with the Sheriff in lieu of bail should not be restored to the defendant. The plaintiff appeared at Chambers on the 2nd instant, by Mr. Pollard, Q.C. The defendant appeared by Mr. Whyteand Mr. Barnard. Mr. Pollard, took a preliminary objection that this rule was to set aside a proceeding in the cause for irregularity, but that the Plaintiff had taken a further step in the cause, and that he was too late now to call on the Plaintiff to support the proceedings under the capias ad respondendum. He submitted that the capias ad respondendum in this case was authorised in this colony by Ordinance 6, of 1845, section 24th, and that if there had been any irregularity in the proceedings under this ordinance, no proceedings by plaintiff in the cause could be set aside after the defendant had taken "any further step therein." He quoted the rules of this Court of 1st November, 1847 (Rule 23) to this effect. The question was thus necessarily raised whether the defendant had taken any further steps within the meaning of the rule in the cause. The question further arises whether every act by a party in reference to a cause is a "step or proceeding in a cause" in order to apply these questions to this rule. Mr. Pollard stated from his instructions that "a further step" had been taken by the defendant. He referred to acts by the defendant which as I thought it important that I should have them clearly set out in evidence before me, Mr. Hazelwood therefore made an affidavit of the facts which were admitted by Mr. Gaskell. These acts are:—1st—That the defendant on his arrest paid $40,000 to the sheriff in lieu of bail. 2nd.—That on the 25th of February last, the defendant's attorney served the plaintiff's attorney with a notice that the Court would be moved on the 27th of February for a rule to show cause why the money deposited with the sheriff should not be given up on good bail being put in to the satisfaction of this Court or to the satisfaction of the sheriff. That on the 26th this notice was abandoned and that names of sureties to join in the bond were submitted to the plaintiff's attorney and that without more delay the notice of the present rule was served on the Plaintiff. These are acts which Mr. Pollard submitted are the constituted "steps" or at least one "step" by the defendants. He said it was like Green v. Glassbrooke, 1 Bing N. C. 516, where paying money into Court was held to be a fatal step. That was so held under 7 and 8 Geo. 4 c. 71 because the defendant had in compliance with the statute then in force not only paid the money into Court but he had entered an appearance in the action which he was obliged to do by the same provision, and it was this appearance and not the putting in of bail which constituted the step in that case, the case is therefore inapplicable. I find that in Howpay v King 2 Chitty R. 236 Mr. Abbott afterward Lord Chief Justice Tenterden admitted that it was doubtful whether the filing common bail was a step so as to disentitle to set aside proceedings for irregularity, but he submitted that the staying till the plaintiff had filed declaration before objecting, that is, till after a step in the cause taken was a step, and succeeded in this contention. I am clearly of opinion that neither the payment of the money to the sheriff nor the giving notice of a motion, applying to put in bail, nor the giving the names of the proposed bail to the plaintiff was a step in the cause and that in the words of Mr. Chitty page 512—513 vol 1. . . . The cases which appear to support Mr. Pollard's contention are for the most part cases which arose before the passing of 1 and 2 of Victoria chapter 110, when the bailable process and the summons together formed one writ, and when putting these was a putting in of bail in court and was itself a step in the cause. Now the cause is begun by a writ of summons the next step upon which is an appearance by the defendant or upon his delay by the plaintiff appearing for him which is taken to be the defendant's step in the cause, and I am of opinion that this is the only real step in the cause and that such step has not as yet been taken. The written objections of the defendant may be corrected, obtainable under the 24th section of No. 6 of 1845 (Hongkong Ordinance) is not a capias ad respondendum property so called. It has special provisions and it leaves it to the sheriff on his responsibility to take the proper security there pointed out to himself, and surely none of such acts of the sheriff are steps in the cause. I am on the whole of opinion that the defendant has not taken such a step in this cause as precludes him from calling on the plaintiff to shew cause upon the present rule. It is unnecessary for the present purpose to consider the suggestion made by Mr. Pollard that the 1st and 2nd of Victoria is not, and never was in force in this colony, but as I have had to consider the history of bailable procedure in reference to this case I will add that I have no doubt that when this colony became a British possession the first and second sections of that act at least became the law of the colony. The 2 W. 4 chapter, 39 for uniformity of process in personal actions abolished all the several processes for the commencement of personal actions then in use, which were very various, some most oppressive and others very inconvenient, and gave forms of writs for commencing actions some bailable and others non-bailable. The 1st and 2nd Victoria 110, by sections 1 and 2 abolish arrest on mesne process except in the case and in the manner provided by that act and directed that all personal action should be commenced by writ of summons. No other writ for commencing a personal action was authorized by any ordinance in this colony till 1856 when ordinance No. introducing the common law procedure act of England then first gave a writ by ordinance. En necessitate therefore the 1st and 2nd sections of 1 and 2 Victoria 110 were incorporated into the law of Hongkong under section No. 4 of 6 of 1845, and section 3 of No. 2 of 1846 and so continued till 1856. The 1 and 2 Victoria 110 having put an end to arrests on mesne process by section 3 authorized as a separate proceeding, the arrest of a defendant in manner there provided which was to be followed by a deposit with, or bail bond to the Sheriff which was to secure the putting the special bail in court according to the old practice, and the defendant was authorised to apply at any time after arrest to the court or judge and such order might be made thereon as might be just. The main object of Mr. Pollard's argument was to satisfy me that section 24 of ordinance 6, 1845 superseded these provisions, because the provision, were ad item rarely allowed on arrest of a debtor, being about to leave the colony. I think it probable that the provisions in the act of Victoria and in the ordinance may co-exist as law in this colony, but as there is not and probably as there will not ever be an occasion for a decision on the point. I give no opinion on the subject. The objection is now I understand taken for the first time after more than twenty years of practice, which is an argument against Mr. Pollard, though "a blot is not a blot until it is hit."

Mr. Whyte, said that since His Lordship had overruled the preliminary objections of his learned friend he was inquire as to His Lordship hearing the case on its merits. They were prepared to go on immediately.

Mr. Pollard, said that they wished to get affidavits to contradict those of the defence, and until these had been procured they were not ready to proceed, he therefore would ask for time to procure these.

His Lordship referred to what he considered a mistake that he felt he was in duty bound to mention. He referred to the excessive amount of the bail to which the defendant had been held $40,000. The affidavit only showed an amount of $34,000 and the law did not allow him to go beyond this in fixing the bail, he was now however willing on the motion of either side to reduce the sum. He was under the impression at the time that he had fixed the amount at $30,000 and he thought in view of the fact of this excessive bail a great deal was to be said by the defendant if they wished to avail themselves of it.

Mr. Whyte said they did not ask for a reduction of the bail, and Mr. Pollard claimed that it was no larger sum than they would get if they obtained all they sought to, but they did not wish the bail other than his Lordship thought was just. The amount of bail was accordingly reduced to $30,000, Mr. Whyte consenting and an order made for $10,000 to be returned to the defendant.

His Lordship remarked that he considered the sheriff in a very awkward position shouldered with such a responsibility as the custody of so large a sum—and for which also he received no compensation than a fee of $2.50.

Mr. Pollard then asked for time to procure the affidavits.

Mr. Whyte hoped the time would be short as it was embarrassing and hard for his client to have these proceedings hanging over him.

Mr. Pollard, did not think it was any harder than for his client who had his ship detained by this defendant for 3 months in Macao, and who was now trying to get out of what was justly due him. He heard that the entire bar of Hongkong was retained with the exception of himself against this unfortunate Captain.

After some further consultation the case was postponed until Wednesday next at 11 o'clock, in order to give plaintiff time to file the necessary affidavits.

The case of Ezekiel the bankrupt was then called but adjourned until next Friday in order to give time for an examination of the new amended schedule and balance sheet that had been prepared, and was produced by the bankrupt.

LEA AND PERRINS' celebrated WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE declared by connoisseurs to be the only good Sauce.
Caution against Fraud. The success of this unrivalled Condiment having caused certain dealers to apply the name of "Worcestershire Sauce" to their own inferior compounds, the Public is hereby informed that the only way to secure the genuine, is to ASK FOR LEA & PERRINS' SAUCE, and to see that their names are upon the wrapper, labels, stopper, and bottle.
Some of the foreign markets having been supplied with a spurious Worcestershire Sauce, upon the wrapper and labels of which the names of Lea and Perrins have been forged, L. and P. give notice that they have furnished their correspondents with power of attorney to take instant proceedings against Manufacturers and Venders of such, or any other imitations by which their right may be infringed.
Ask for Lea & Perrins' Sauce, and see Name on Wrapper, Label, Bottle, and Stopper.
